ANALYSIS: Trump Has Made As Much As $21 Million From His Oil And Gas Investments Since The Start Of The Iran War

As of October 2026, Trump's oil and gas stock holdings are worth roughly $47.4 million, but could be worth as much as $73.8 million. Trump has made an estimated $13.9 million from his oil and gas stocks in 2026, but that total could be as high as $21.3 million. Trump has continued to buy oil and gas stocks as his war of choice in Iran has caused their share prices to surge: Trump's largest day of oil and gas buying this year came on August 21, when he bought as much as $10.8 million in ConocoPhillips, Chevron, Occidental Petroleum, Expand Energy and EOG Resources stock. Trump has disclosed 122 oil and gas stock purchases so far this year, along with 86 sales. In addition to his stock positions, Trump also holds an estimated $8.6 million in bonds issued or backed by oil and gas companies. While Americans are suffering sky-high prices at the pump, Trump is cashing in.

NOTE: Civitas Resources merged into SM Energy on January 30, 2026 (1.45 SM shares per Civitas share) and Coterra Energy merged into Devon Energy on May 7, 2026 (0.70 Devon shares per Coterra share). For Coterra and Civitas, we converted the shares Trump held into shares of the acquiring company at the merger exchange ratio and valued them at that company's current share price. More details on these conversions are below.

NOTE: For Comstock Resources, Trump's disclosed 2026 sales are as large as or larger than his reported year-end holdings plus his 2026 purchases, which indicates he sold the position entirely. Because of the width of the disclosure ranges, the calculation would otherwise show a small negative value, so we treated these positions as fully sold and value them at zero, with no gain or loss counted.

NOTE: Bonds are held at their disclosed values, and we do not estimate any change in value. Estimated current holdings equal year-end 2025 holdings plus 2026 purchases minus 2026 sales. The St. John the Baptist Parish bond is a Louisiana municipal revenue bond repaid by Marathon Oil, which ConocoPhillips acquired in November 2024.

Methodology

This analysis draws on Trump's annual financial disclosure covering the 2025 calendar year and all 11 periodic transaction reports he filed in 2026, which together document every oil and gas asset he held as of December 31, 2025, and every oil and gas trade he has disclosed since, through August 31 of this year.

Because federal disclosure rules require officials to report the value of each asset and transaction only within broad ranges rather than as exact amounts, this analysis assumes the true figure falls at the midpoint of each range. Each holding and transaction is priced using the average of the stock's daily high and low on the relevant date, and all positions are valued at their closing price on October 20, 2026.

This analysis starts from the holdings Trump reported as of December 31, 2025, and applies the percentage change in each company's share price during 2026. It then adds each 2026 purchase and subtracts each 2026 sale, each adjusted for the change in share price from the date of the trade to October 20, 2026.

This analysis covers oil and gas producers, refiners, pipeline companies, and oil and gas royalty owners, plus one energy-sector index fund (XLE) counted like any other stock. It excludes oilfield service, drilling, and equipment companies, which earn fees for work on wells rather than selling oil and gas, so they do not benefit directly from higher oil prices. It also does not include electric or gas utilities, coal companies, renewable or nuclear power companies, municipal gas-supply bonds, broad commodity funds or diversified companies with only partial oil and gas exposure.
